SILC Study Abroad Programs

Students study at SILC for one term or longer. For each term, they will study 6 to 7 courses. Credits are awarded by SILC and recognized by partner universities.

Through the study abroad program, students are not only taught organizational theories and concepts, but also observe local business through both case studies and corporate visits. They get to understand the Chinese economy and society, and will experience the culture shock brought about by a traditional culture within a modern metropolis.

Students' Comments

Frederik Miebach:
Study abroad student from Hochschule Fresenius

"Ni men hao! My name is Frederik Miebach and I'm an exchange student from Leverkusen, Germany. Studying at SILC was a great experience for me. I meet a lot of new people (especially Chinese students) and I got to experience a new teaching approach. I've learned to cope with the Chinese market, as well as to deal with a highly diversified workforce. My happiest memories are closely linked to an emotional soccer match between our student soccer team and the Chinese soccer team. As the captain of the team, I've managed to score twice, as well as to contribute an assist. The final score was 3:2. It was a great team effort and this will always be the greatest memory and experience with the Chinese students at SILC. I'm happy to have had the opportunity to study abroad in Shanghai and I'm keen to come back in a couple of years."

Nantaporn Chanpratheep:
Study abroad student from Prince of Songkla University

"It's good to study and live here. Chinese students are patient. Chinese language is also very interesting but I still need to learn more about it."

Watcharin Pinida:
Study abroad student from Prince of Songkla University

"Going through new life , enjoying new food and meeting new friends. Joining this SILC program is the best decision I've ever made."
